Thermo Fisher Scientific celebrates 20th year in Singapore

Singapore: Thermo Fisher Scientific has completed 20th year of its operation in Singapore. The company celebrated the milestone on August 30, 2016 at Block 33, Marsiling Industrial EstateÃ?Â Road 3 with a town hall and other employee events.

U.S. dignitaries, Stephanie Syptak-Ramnath, ChargÃ?Æ?Ã?Â© d'Affaires a.i. and Margaret Hanson-Muse, Minister Counselor for Commercial Affairs-ASEAN, U.S.Embassy, Singapore, Mark Stevenson, Executive Vice President and President of Life Sciences Solutions and Mark O'Donnell, Vice President of Global Operations for Life Sciences Solutions andÃ?Â Laboratory Products segments, are the guests of honor.

"It is a proud moment in history for Thermo Fisher as we celebrate the 20th anniversary of the SingaporeÃ?Â site's service to customers in the region and around the world," said Mark Stevenson, executive viceÃ?Â president at Thermo Fisher. "The site's incredible growth in the last two decades is a testament to ThermoÃ?Â Fisher's commitment to meet the needs of the scientific community."

The Thermo Fisher Marsiling site began operations in 1996 and was originally a 15,000-square-footÃ?Â manufacturing facility with 24 employees. Today the Marsiling site footprint has grown tenfold to aÃ?Â 150,000 square-foot facility with more than 800 colleagues representing Thermo Fisher businessesÃ?Â across the company. Having built more than 210,000 instruments over two decades, the site is a ThermoÃ?Â Fisher Center of Excellence for instrument manufacturing in the Asia-Pacific region.

Thermo Fisher continues to invest in and expand its manufacturing, Research and Development (R&D)Ã?Â and commercial capabilities in Singapore in order to better serve customers in Asia Pacific and globallyÃ?Â from this important hub.

"The presence of Thermo Fisher manufacturing and R&D in Singapore enables innovative, complex, highÃ?Â quality and cost competitive life sciences products to be rapidly developed and commercially launchedÃ?Â from Singapore," said Kem-Wah Choy, vice president of manufacturing operations for Thermo FisherÃ?Â Singapore. "We will continue to invest in and expand our manufacturing, R&D and commercialÃ?Â capabilities in Singapore to better serve customers in Asia Pacific and globally from this important hub. I look forward to another 20 years of success for our customers and colleagues."
