DHA signs MoU with Nice University Hospital

September 26, 2018 | News

The purpose of the MoU is to establish a framework between the two parties to provide training programmes for UAE nationals based on the experience and knowledge of Nice University Hospital.

The Dubai Health Authority (DHA) has signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) with Nice University Hospital.

The MoU was signed by HE Humaid Al Qutami, Director-General of the DHA and Charles Guepratte, Chief Executive Officer of Nice University Hospital in the presence of high level officials including Her Excellency Raja Rabia, the Consul General of France in Dubai and Guillaume Huart, Regional Counselor for Health – Middle East at Embassy of France.

The purpose of the MoU, which is applicable until mid-2021, is to establish a framework between the two parties to provide training programmes for UAE nationals based on the experience and knowledge of Nice University Hospital.

The training will cover all medical fields and will be applicable for doctors, nurses and technicians. The training programmes will include short-term training sessions, fellowship training, master classes and workshops. The hospital is renowned for subspecialty training such as complicated surgeries, diabetes care and management, gastroenterology etc.
