

MWH Medical partners with Siemens Healthineers

23 October 2018 | News | By Manbeena Chawla

The partnership will pave the way for the main healthcare hub to incorporate Siemens Healthineers' latest medical innovations and technology in Asia.

MWH Medical Pte Ltd, a leading medical group, and Siemens Healthineers are pleased to announce the launch of the first Asia Reference Centre through their partnership.

Siemens Healthineers will establish its first-in-the-region, Asia Reference Centre at the newly-launched MWH Medical Centre. The Centre will serve as a touch point to other regional medical facilities and to introduce Siemens' latest medical innovations and technology in Asia. This strategic partnership will pave its way as the region's main healthcare hub and cater to the challenges medical practitioners face in managing higher expectations around convenience, customisation and overall experience. The partnership will seed a new set of considerations in seeking growth amid an industry in transformation.

This partnership is a testament to the long working relationship between MWH Medical and Siemens Healthineers. Both parties will develop a Centre of Excellence with the long-term objectives of ensuring better disease management and improving quality of patient care. With the rise of chronic diseases prevalent in Asia, the Centre will allow both parties to embark on partnerships to meet the enormous clinical interest in diagnostic advanced imaging.

Through their shared efforts and cooperation, global experts from Siemens Healthineers will leverage MWH Medical's facilities and state-of-the-art technology to drive training programmes and educate both local and regional medical practitioners. Together, both parties will continue to expand healthcare services in ensuring better disease management and improving overall patient outcome.