

True Digital Park to propel digital economy in South East Asia

09 October 2019 | News

The Work Space at True Digital Park offers a complete startup ecosystem with an "Open Innovation" concept

True Digital Park, Thailand's first and Southeast Asia's largest digital innovation hub, has announced the completion of its startup ecosystem, reinforcing the readiness to drive regional digital economy forward. The opening ceremony was presided over by Dr. Somkid Jatusripitak, Deputy Prime Minister.

True Digital Park covers a space of 43 rai separated into three main areas: Work Space, Lifestyle Space, and Living Space that meet all digital lifestyle needs. Under the concept of "One Roof - All Possibilities", True Digital Park combines space for work and daily life within one integrated community.

The Work Space offers a complete startup ecosystem with an "Open Innovation" concept that brings together multinational tech companies, startups and entrepreneurs, incubators and accelerators, VCs and investors, and government agencies. This established digital community provides crucial knowledge creation that is supportive to digital innovations. True Digital Park is fully equipped with an integrated telecommunications systems and smart solutions for smart life.

Thanasorn Jaidee President of True Digital Park said, "The mission of True Digital Park is to enhance the competency of startups and tech entrepreneurs, helping them reach their full potential, grow and compete in the global marketplace. At True Digital Park, startups and tech entrepreneurs will gain new knowledge while taking advantage of telecommunication infrastructure and digital platforms. They will also receive support from large corporations and government organizations and have access to funding and networking opportunities."