December 31, 2019 | News

Focused exclusively on companies defining the healthcare industry, the conference is expecting 400 public and private companies to deliver presentations to over 8,000 attendees in San Francisco, CA

Gracell Biotechnologies Co. Ltd., a clinical-stage immune cell therapy company, has announced it will present at leading healthcare conferences in San Francisco, California at the beginning of January 2020. Gracell will present at the 38th Annual J.P. Morgan Healthcare Conference, held between January 13-16, 2020 at The Westin St. Francis Hotel on Union Square.

Focused exclusively on companies defining the healthcare industry, the J.P. Morgan Healthcare Conference is the largest of its kind and will welcome over 400 public and private companies to deliver presentations to over 8,000 attendees, including investors and industry leaders.

"We are delighted to be invited to present at some of the most recognized and regarded events in the healthcare industry," said Dr. William Cao, CEO of Gracell. "The invaluable data from Gracell's clinical trials demonstrates our strong capabilities to bring multiple novel technologies to the forefront of immune cell therapy field. We are eager to share these findings with the global healthcare community."
