

Roquette appoints Barentz as strategic partner for US pharma distribution

22 September 2020 | News

The distributor will carry the entire Roquette pharmaceutical portfolio for customers in the US

Roquette, a global leader in plant-based ingredients, a pioneer of plant proteins and a world-leading provider of pharmaceutical excipients, has appointed Netherlands based Barentz a leading global life science ingredients distributor for the Human Nutrition, Pharmaceutical, Personal Care and Animal Nutrition markets, as its strategic partner for the distribution of pharmaceutical and nutraceutical products in the United States.

Barentz and Roquette have been successfully working together for many years in several European countries by developing distribution channels backed by strong technical expertise. It is part of the high-performance distribution network Roquette has implemented to support its position as a world-leading pharmaceutical excipients company.

This appointment brings technical expertise to the United States, where both companies will benefit from a strategic partnership that will enable them to grow in the pharmaceutical market.

This strategic partnership in the US is a logical next step in the ongoing, successful relationship between Roquette and Barentz.
