More medical supplies are expected as required

Taiwan shared a total of 150 oxygen concentrators and 500 oxygen cylinders with India to support the country's fight against the surging second wave of COVID-19.

Taiwan's Foreign Minister Joseph Wu tweeted: "These oxygen concentrators & cylinders are love from #Taiwan. More help for our friends in #India is on the way. #IndiaStayStrong! JW,"

The batch of supply will be donated to Indian Red Cross Society that is in charge of coordinating all medical supplies donated by foreign governments to help the South Asian country fight the COVID-19 pandemic. More medical supplies are expected as friendly aid from Taiwan to India, as required
