BioSpectrum
the business of Bio & Health Sciences
ASIA EDITION

UK firm invests $14 mn to make med-devices in China

September 12, 2013 | News | By BioSpectrum Bureau

Singapore: UK-based medical devices manufacturer Intersurgical has invested $14.1 million in the Bio-Pharmaceutical Industrial Park of Changzhou National Hi-Tech District (CND) in Jiangsu, China.

The construction of the new project is scheduled to begin during November 2013. The new unit will be Intersurgical's first wholly-owned production base in China and will manufacture devices for airway management, anesthesia, critical care and oxygen and aerosol therapy.