Exploring opportunities to contribute to local health development

Australia-based startup Connect2MyDoctor, the comprehensive virtual care platform which has firmly established itself as a leading online healthcare service provider in Asia and Middle East, has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the University of Sharjah to exchange scientific and medical expertise.

The institutions have agreed to collaborate on research activities that will extend to areas such as data collection, analysis and joint submissions to journals, conferences and scientific venues.

The agreement says tele-rehabilitation of identified patients will happen through Connect2MyDoctor's OmniROM module. This will enable physiotherapists to remotely monitor and measure a patient's recovery/rehabilitation.

Connect2MyDoctor recently opened its regional headquarters in Dubai to cater the offerings in Remote Patient Management, Home Care, Tele Rehabilitation and more for the region.

Headquartered in Melbourne, the startup has local offices in India and Dubai.
