BioSpectrum
the business of Bio & Health Sciences
ASIA EDITION

Taiwanese medtech manufacturers to showcase innovations at India's Medicall Exhibition

July 17, 2023 | News

Taiwan-based firms such as FortuneÃ?Â® Medical Instrument and Microlife taking part in the event

Taiwanese medical device manufacturers, among others, are participating in India's premier B2B Medical Equipment Show- Medicall at Chennai Trade Center from 28-30 July, 2023.

While Fortune® Medical Instrument specialises in the development and manufacturing of Class IIa and IIb medical devices, with a specific focus on postoperative wound drainage and urology catheters; Microlife, a global leader in medical diagnostic equipment, is announcing the launch of its professional cardiovascular solution, the Microlife WatchBP Office. This cutting-edge device provides healthcare professionals with the accurate and efficient measurements. It can be used for both pediatric and adult patients. The device can detect atrial fibrillation during measurement and provides a warning if it's detected.

Further, one of the latest additions to the product portfolio of Fortune® Medical Instrument is the silicone gastrostomy tube, designed to facilitate safer and more comfortable feeding for patients. The other notable product is the silicone nasogastric tube, which incorporates the ENFit connector, a technology based on the ISO 80369-3 small-bore connectors for liquids and gases.

The implementation of the ENFit connector is driven by its crucial role in mitigating the risk of misconnections and ensuring a secure feeding and medication pathway for patients.

Medicall, in its 33th edition, is organised by Medexpert Business Consultants, promoted by Dr Manivannan S, Managing Director of Kauvery hospital, a 2,000 bedded Hospital group in South India.