Terumo Asia Holdings unveils Terumo Asia Skill Lab with the expansion of Singapore office

October 2, 2024 | News

At its Asia-Pacific headquarters in Singapore, Terumo Asia Skill Lab aims to bring together local and overseas healthcare professionals in order to advance healthcare professional expertise

Japan's TERUMO Asia Holdings has launched its “Terumo Asia Skill Lab” at its Asia-Pacific headquarters in Singapore following the official relocation to a new space and expansion of its greater facility at the Singapore office.

Terumo's regional headquarters in Asia Pacific marks an important milestone as it redefines the future and continues to innovate. While honoring its heritage of 50 years in Singapore, the modern, eco-friendly facility fosters collaboration, innovation and growth. As part of this new facility, Terumo Asia Skill Lab aims to bring together local and overseas healthcare professionals in order to advance healthcare professional expertise.

H.E. Hiroshi Ishikawa, Japanese Ambassador to Singapore, and Jacqueline Poh, Managing Director of Singapore Economic Development Board, were among the honorees at the inauguration.

Guests of honor of the inauguration include H.E. Hiroshi Ishikawa, Japanese Ambassador to Singapore as well as Jacqueline Poh, Managing Director of Singapore Economic Development Board.

“Japanese companies like Terumo have been an important partner in Singapore's economy, undertaking activities that span from Regional Headquarters to Innovation Centres. The latest investment by Terumo underscores Singapore’s continued partnership with Japanese companies and reputation as a trusted hub for medtech innovation and talent development. The Terumo Asia Skill Lab will create opportunities for local and international clinicians and talent to exchange expertise, deepen capabilities, and collaborate on research initiatives that can contribute to healthcare advancements” expressed Clarence Chua Senior Vice President and Head, Japan and Korea, EDB.

Strategic Hub for Regional Collaboration and Knowledge Exchange

Leveraging Singapore's strategic location, the Terumo Asia Skill Lab invites healthcare professionals, as well as biomedical students from across the region to "Participate in masterclasses and workshops" and "Engage in collaborative research initiatives" as well.

This Skill Lab fosters cross-border knowledge sharing, standardizing best practices and elevating regional healthcare standards.

"The Terumo Asia Skill Lab represents our commitment to healthcare education, empowering professionals to deliver exceptional patient care. Terumo has a long history in healthcare training, and the Skill Lab is a momentous milestone in this journey" Probir Das, Chairman and Managing Director, Terumo Asia Holdings.
