As BioSpectrum Asia marks its 20th year, this year's awards honour the industry stalwarts redefining Asian life sciences, from bioprocessing and AI drug discovery to advanced diagnostics, cell therapy and the supply chain

BioSpectrum Asia, the region's leading life sciences media platform, is proud to announce the winners of the BioSpectrum Asia Excellence Awards 2026.

As BioSpectrum Asia marks its 20th anniversary this year, the programme recognises the industry stalwarts whose work over the Calendar Year 2025 and the first half of 2026 has set the pace for the Asia Pacific life sciences industry. The winners were selected through a combined editorial and independent international jury review.

The honours span the full value chain of modern life sciences, from bioprocessing, manufacturing technology and healthcare packaging, to artificial intelligence in drug discovery and clinical development, advanced diagnostics, cell and regenerative therapy, RNA-targeting therapeutics, digital health and biologics safety testing. Winners are drawn from across the region, including Singapore, India, South Korea, Japan, Taiwan and China, reflecting the breadth of innovation now originating in Asia.

While the Industry Award Winners 2026 is live now, the Special Jury Award, to be revealed on the event night is a distinction selected by an international jury to recognise an exceptional contribution that stands apart from the industry category winners.

All winners will be formally celebrated at the Awards Gala Night on Friday, 4 December 2026, at METT Singapore, bringing together senior leaders from across the regional life sciences community for an evening of recognition and networking.

"For 20 years, BioSpectrum Asia has reported on the business of Bio and Health Sciences across the region, and these awards exist to recognise the organisations driving that industry forward," said Ankit Kankar, Chief Operating Officer, BioSpectrum Asia. "My sincere congratulations to all the winners. Their work, across research, manufacturing, diagnostics, therapeutics and care, is shaping the commercial future of Asian life sciences, and it is a privilege to celebrate them as we mark our 20th year."
