

Boston Scientific China gets new MD

14 June 2012 | News | By BioSpectrum Bureau

Boston Scientific China gets new MD

Singapore: Mr Warren Wang has been appointed vice president and managing director of Boston Scientific Corporation's operations in China. Mr Wang is responsible for leading the company's team in China and executing the development strategy in the Chinese market. He is based at the company's China headquarters in Shanghai and reports to Supratim Bose, executive vice president and president of Boston Scientific Asia-Pacific.

"With his passion for workforce development, deep knowledge of the China market, strategic thinking capabilities, and business acumen, Warren is well positioned to lead our team as it strives to achieve accelerated growth and further market expansion in China," said Mr Supratim Bose, executive vice president and president of Boston Scientific Asia-Pacific.

Mr Wang recently served as general manager of the Orthopedics group at Johnson & Johnson Medical China. His tenure at Johnson & Johnson spanned more than 10 years and included several leadership positions.